resolutions were read and adopted and heartily applauded, and the delegates rose and gave three cheers for "Grover Claveland, the next President of the United States."

The platform expresses unqualified approval of the platform of principles adopted by the National Democratic Convention, and the belief that an administration conducted on those principles would secure to the people the greatest blessing of a free country, exact equity of every citizen under the law; justice unbiased by race, color, or creed; laws enacted in the interest of the many, and not of the few. It then says:

Col. Haggett said that the Chair had very mildly designated as a "mistake" the bunch of ballots found by the committee, but every one knew what such mistakes meant in a political Convention. He therefore moved that the committee be instructed to throw out the bunch of ballots in question.

After considerable discussion the amendment of Col. Haggett was carried by a large majority. Col. French announced that the Chairman of the committee had informed him that it would be impossible to comply with the vote of the Convention. The committee were then discharged and a formal ballot was ordered. The delegates were ordered to pass over the stage and deposit their votes with the Chairman and Secretary. The report of the Committee on Resolutions was presented, and the resolutions were adopted without debate. The following are the chief planks in the platform:

We favor a discriminate tariff, framed with regard to the carrial protection of the taxpayer, of American industries and the American laborer, to whom it should give his find share in the national prosperity, a tariff in which reforms and corrections should be made with a view to reduce the surpius, and at the same time correct inequasities, and not by the liligical marshift of a horizontai reduction as a step toward the disastrons experiment of free trads.

The Republican party has long been and is the organisation which has the tenderest regard for those who depend on each day's abor for their dails bread, the protection of whose interests has of late become a more and the civil service already begun, so that executive appointments to offices not involving the political policy of the Administration should be based on the fitness of the appointments to offices not involving the political policy of the Administration should be based on the fitness of the appointments, should savire a faithful servant of his place, though administrations change, and should free the incumbents from enforced political assessments and services.

We favor liberal legislation to resistablish and assure the prosperity of the merchant marine of the country, and to reatore the may so that it may be an establishment commensurate with the nation's dignity. We commend James G. Blaine and John A. Logan as worthy the support of Massachusetts, as statesmen of experience, fidelity, ability, parirotism, and carnest devotion to the principles we believe to be right; and as men to where bands the hour and weifare of this nation, will be safely intrusted.

After the reading and adoption of the resolu-fions Gov. Robinson appeared, escorted by the committee. He was introduced by the Presi-dent, and, among other things, said:

I sheept this trust, and if the people at the polls in No-vember ratify your choice they will have no reason to reaset their confidence. So far as it lies in my about a serve them faithfully, so faithfully will they be served.

Mr. Moulton of Lowell moved that the remainder of the ticket be the old ticket, and that it be nominated by acclamation. The motion was unanimously adopted. The ticket is as follows: Governor, Geo. HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 3. In the Republican State Convention to-day resolutions favoring a fusion with the Greenbackers and Inde-pendents and endorsing George Washington Jones, the Independent candidate for Governor, were lost, 104 ayes to 279 noes. The Committee on Resolutions then reported. The majority report declares it inexpedient and impracticable at this day to place a State ticket in the field, and recommends the Republicans to aid at the Independent candidates for State offices. The minerity report declares in favor of a straight Republican ticket, and also a Basine and Legan electors ticket. On motion to substitute the minerity for the majority report, an angry debate followed. About twenty delegates addressed the Convention, many being interrupted by loud clamors for the previous question. Motions to adjourn were voted down. The Chairman finally ordered a call of the roll on the question substituting the minority for the majority report. HONORS FOR THE SAVANTS.

Ending the First Meeting of the British Association in the New World-Peculiar-liles of the Famous Men on the Stage.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3 .- The first meeting of the British Association in the New World has come to an end. This was thanksgiving day of the savants. After a few papers had been read in two or three of the sections which did not complete their work yesterday, the members of the association and a great throng of citimeeting. Many of the visitors sat upon the stage, and others, who could not find room there, retreated to the two small galleries above it. Among those who sat in one of the galleries was the handsome young Prof. Sylvanus G. Thompson. He smiled even more charmingly than when he was elucidating the mysteries of electricity; but, although his face was toward the audience, it would be unscientific to affirm, in the absence of positive evidence, that he was smiling at the young ladies. It may be safely asserted, however, that some of them were smiling at him.

Among the famous men upon the stage were Sir Richard Temple, a little man, with a re-markably large nose and a wonderful grizzled markably large nose and a wonderful grizzled moustache and imperial of Louis Napoleon style: Admiral Ommaney, a little old man wearing yellow leather shoes: Sir Frederick Bramwell, a very large man, whose face resembles that of Dr. John Hail, and whose sitky hair fails naturally into the shape of a powdered wig, giving him the appearance of a gentleman of the real old school; and the Earl of Rosse, with his untrimmed whiskers and his beak-shaped nose, which seems to be silways on the point of taking a step upward and taking his upper tip with it.

Principal Dawson of McGill announced that that institution had decided, in honor of the meeting of the British Association, to bestow the degree LL. D. upon Lord Rayleigh, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Sir John Macdonald, Sir Lyon Playfair, Prof. Frankland, Carl. Douglass Daiton, Vernon Harcourt, Esq., Sir Henry Roscoe, Sir Thos, Bonney, Sir Wittam Thompson, W. T. Blantord, Esq., Prof. Asa Gray, Prof. James Hall, and Prof. Daniel Wilson, The Marquis of Lansdowne and Sir John A. Macdonald fwere not present. Most of the others walked forward as their names were called and received their diplomas and the applause of the audience. Lord Rayleigh then announced that the association had decided to raise money for a medal to be won by students of applied science in McGill College.

Resolutions were successively presented, applauded, and adopted, returning the thanks of the association to the Government of Canada, to McGill College, to the city and citizens of Montreal, to the local committees, to the various institutions which showed favors to the savants, to the railroad steambost and telegraph companies who reduced rates and sometimes abolished charges altogether for the benefit of the savants, and finally, to the newspapers. There was also a resolution of thanks to the President, Lord Rayleigh, which was received with long-continued applause.

Massachusetts Republicans Renominate Gov.
Rubinson and the Old Ticket.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The Republican State Convention was called to order at 11 A. M. by Chairman Lodge, who made no address. Robert M. Morse, Jr., was chosen permanent Chairman. He made a long address, and a hearty outburst of enthusiasm occurred when he redrawl to perfection, and speaks in the most slovenly manner. To-day, when he arose to return thanks for the honor done him, these peculiarities appeared in a most striking light. Nevertheless, he is a famous savant, and he was greated with round after round of applause.

The most taking speech made to-day was that of Prof. R. S. Bell, the jolly looking Astronomer Royal of Ireland. He is rotund and rosy, and looke like a well-fed and well-contented Irish-American Alderman. He was the only one of the savants to make public scknowledgements of the fact that he had been admiring the pretty girls of Montreal, and that his imaxination bad been fired by descriptions of the delights of fobogganing and showshoeing. He said when the British Association came to Canada again he hoped it would be in the whiter time, when these sports were at their height, and that the citizens of Montreal would build a magnificent palace for its meetings.

Beveral references were made in the addresses to the drawing together in closerhonds of union of Canada and Great Britain, and Sir Lyon Playfair was loudly applauded when he declared that he believed in the political federation of Great Britain on the other side of the Atlantic and Great Britain on this side.

A resolution was passed expressing the sympathy of the association with a plan for founding a free public library in Montreal, and the savants, on the suggestion of Prof. Boyd Dawkins, promised to give the new library a start by presenting it with copies of their writings.

To-morrow the savants will scatter in all directions, some going to Toronto, the Bocky Mountains, and the Yellowstone valley, and others, whose appetite for pure science is yet unsatisfied, taking a special train for Philadelphia to attend the meeting let he American Association for the Advancement of Science, Ali agree that the meeting here has been a success, and all are giad that they came. Montreal will not soon forget the wise men from Britain.

Repairing the Dismantled Forts at Foo-Chow

LONDON, Sept. 3 .- An English official who has been connected for many years with the consular service in China, and has just re-turned to Europe, says that the rank and file of the Chinese army are not coldlers in any sense of the term. They are simply coolies dressed in uniform. They are not capable of understanding the first rudiments of drill or of military evolutions. Their only ideas of disci-pline are comprised in a slavish subjection to their officers, who are, in many cases, almost as ignorant and degraded as the men. The army exists almost entirely on paper, and when orders were received from the Pekin Govern-ment for the massing of troops on the southern frontier and coast, the provincial authorities had no troops to send. In this dilemma they simhad no troops to send. In this dilem mathey simply drafted a horde of coolies, disguised them as soldiers, and then reported that the required number of troops had been put in the field. This accounts, to a large extent, for the shamefully inefficient manner, in which the artillery of the Woo-Sung forts was handled during the attacks by Admiral Courbet. When the Governor of the forts gave orders for the soldiers to prepare for action, the men replied that their duty was to clean the guns, and not to fight. On one of the Chinese war ships the sailors were so awkward in handling the ammunition as to cause a shell to explode on deck, tearing away the bows of the vessel and killing several men. After that occurrence the sailors could not be prevailed upon to sight a cannon, or, indeed, to approach one after it was loaded. The Government at Pekin is also constantly sending absurd and contradictory orders which, added to the incompetence of the officers and men, cause fearful blunders and terrible scenes of confusion.

The Eastern Telegraph Company has given notice that the land wires to Tien Tsin and Pekin are interrupted.

The These' Foo-Chow despatch reports the city and European settlement quiet. The English Vice-Consul has returned to the Pacoda under a Chinese guard. The Consul will soon return. The Chinese are repairing their dismantled forts. Order is only maintained by the presence of the British and American fleets. The Chinese merchant fleet sold to the Messra, Russel consisted of twenty-six steamers, aggregating 23.544 tonnage. The company was started twelve years ago, and was under the patronage of Li Hung Chang, who obtained loans from the Government, to whom the company was indebted 2.000.000 tacis is $3.000.000. Their business was mainly India and China ventures to London and San Francisco, but it proved a failure. The sale of the fleet has ended one of the most important steps in the industrial progress of the Chinese waters are being kept secret. His skin hung from his limbs in flaps. His face, bands, and scalp were black with a thick crust of soot and dirt. He had not washed himself or changed his clothing for ten months. He had lived a long time at a temperature inside the hut of from five to ten degrees above zero. He was nervous and irritable, at times almost irrational, and his aves were wild and staring. He insisted on talking, craving news and demanding food, but he combained of no pain.

His tongue was dry and cracked and coated a brownish black. He was ravenously hungry. His pulse was 52, and soft or compressible. His skin was cold, cammy, shrivelled, and sailow. His temperature under the tongue was 97.2°. There was great muscular waste, and he was unable to move or to stand without support. Before leaving Fort Congor in August, 1883, he weighed 168 pounds. He now weighed 120 pounds. He was carried aboard the Thetis about 11 P. M. on June 22 it being then broad daylight in that region, and his treatment from that hour until 8 o'clock the next morning was a tenspoonful of minced raw beef, alternated every half hour with a tenspoonful of mike punch. Strict quiet was enjoined.

On June 23 Surgeon Green was compelled to allow him to read some letters from home, after which he seemed less restless. He talked rationally, but showed a loss of memory in often repeating what he had previously said, He had not closed his eyes in sleep since his rescue. There was excessive constitution. The treatment was the same as during the night, except that finely-cut raw onion was added to like minced beef, and half an ounce of milk punch was given every two hours.

On the next day, June 24, although he had yet had no sleep, and he showed a great desire to talk and read, there were signs of improvement. He was less pensistent in demanding food his tongue presented a moister appearance, he began to complain of screeness in his limbs, and his heart sounded stronger. Surgeon Green had him sponged with tepid water and briskly rubbed with flatnels. He gave him a small quantity of outment thoroughly boiled, beef essence, and scraped beef and onion.

On the next day, June 25, Lieut, Greely slept for the first time. He awake after two or three hours, much refreshed. He talked without excitement, and his tongue and skin began to look more natural, His muscles felt sore, and his ankies were puffed.

On the next day, June 26, his mind was tranquil, but there was a loss of memory of words, He was allowed to sit up in bed and read a little. He sleept six hours. For the first time since his rescen medicine was given him, some muriate of iron.

On the next morning he got eight ounces of broiled steak, and on the following day, June 28, he dressed himself and sat up for two hours. His food was now gradually increased from day to day, and he continued steadily to improve. On July 1 he was well bundled up, and allowed to sit on deek for an hour in the sunshine. On July 17 the Thetis arrived at 8t, Johns.

Lieut, Greely's muscles were now filling out rapidly, and he was allowed to go on shore and take exercise. Here, Surgeon Green says, the Lieutenant committed Northwestern was the pivoial stock of what little market there was too-lay. The course of St. Paul, which, with Northwestern, practically monopolized speculation, also exercised a certain amount of influence upon the rest of the list. Northwestern was unmistakely weak, except at the opening, when it was advanced 1 if econt. taking the rest of the market with it. But the improvement was short lived, and again, under the lead of Northwestern, which dropped 2by it cent, to 90%, prices declined, St. Paul fluctuated within the limits of 1 is cent, and was stealy throughout the day, showing as a rule, the greatest strength when its companion spock was the weakest. This fact atoused the suspicion that the one was beind norder to sell the other. The speculation in the two appeared to be largely based upon the carbings of the companions for the other. The speculation in the two appeared to be largely based upon the earthings of the companies for the last week in August and for the month, which were reported to-day.
